On the Newest History of Islamic Philosophy

This article examines the newest philosophical trends of Islamic thought: Modernists, Reformists and the Followers of unity. Based on the ideas and main principles of the thinkers, the author divides the Followers of unity into two branches – those who comprehend the real problems of the present and propose ways to overcome them and those who along with the restoration of energy of Islam also offer a new system of philosophy of Islam.

If we want to bring to light the history and true nature of Islamic philosophy we need to study the newest history of Islamic philosophy. Both the analysis of modern Muslim thinker's and researcher's ideas and views, and classification of modern philosophical trends have to take into consideration that Western thought has leading position in the world philosophy.
